Theft of Grain.

On Thursday last, when his son-in-law informed him that someone had been hauling grain from a granary on his south quarter, Mr Peter Schoepp, the prominent Blueberry farmer, made an investigation, and found the building had been broken into and a load of wheat removed.

He phoned Corp. Moses, and they tracked the hoof-prints and wagon marks to Carvel, where they found that a load of 61-ba. of wheat had just been sold there by a man named John Meyer.

The latter, who lives near Heatherdown, was overtaken on the Carvel road north, on his way home, and taken into custody. He was brought to Stony, given a preliminary hearing, and committed for trial. Later in the day he was taken to the Edmonton barracks by the police.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs John Meyer of Heatherdown wishes to thank all those kind friends in Stony Plain who contributed money and supplies so generously, on Saturday last, for the use of herself and her needy family.

Canada On Easy Street

Hon. James A. Robb, Dominion Minister of Finance, is credited with the terse comment, "Canada is on easy street," when making announcement last month that even before due date, the Treasury had paid off $22,000,000 of the $53,000,000 short term bonds falling due on October 15, last, and that the balance would be paid on due date out of cash on hand in the Treasury. Even so, said Mr. Robb, there would be "some left over," and he had reason to hope, "if Providence continues kind to us and gives us good crops, and business keeps just as good as it is now, without even getting any better," to take care of further maturities coming along from now till 1933.

In other words, out of current revenues and without having to resort to the issue of refunding loans, Canada was able to pay off $53,000,000 of its public debt this year. And this does not represent the full amount of the debt reduction that has been effected this year, with a consequent lowering of the interest burden.

In the short period of six years the public debt has been reduced to an extent that means a lessening of the burden of interest annually in an amount of almost $15,000,000. And if Mr. Robb's expectations for the next five years are realized in an equally large, or even larger, amount will be lopped off by 1933.

The most gratifying feature, however, is that this substantial reduction in debt and in annual interest charges has been achieved, not as a result of increased taxation, but concurrent with a general decrease in taxation, including lowering of tariff schedules, a higher tax on business profits, reductions in the sales tax, smaller income taxes, reduced postage rates, smaller stamp levies on cheques, and the abolition of stamp duties on receipts. In a word, the removal of restrictions on the business of the country has been helpful in the development of business, and, as a direct consequence, larger revenues to the Government.

Another important factor has been the really phenomenal improvement in the management and finances of the Canadian National Railways, as a result of which the Dominion Treasury is no longer called upon to pay out huge sums to cover operating deficits and in interest to the public on account of railway bonds and debentures. On the contrary, the C.N.R. now accumulates an ever increasing surplus to apply on its past obligations to the Government.

The year now drawing to a close will, it is confidently expected, disclose a record year in the history of the Canadian National Railways, while President Beatty is authority for the statement that 1928 will, in all probability, prove to be the banner year in the history of the Canadian Pacific.

A perusal of the press of Canada, and particularly of all financial journals in which are recorded the annual reports of the banks, trust, loan, mortgage and insurance companies, and all the large manufacturing and industrial concerns of the Dominion, discloses the fact that one and all are enjoying great prosperity, enormously increased business and substantial profits.

No one circumstance can be credited with the whole responsibility for this magnificent showing, although it is safe to say that the great grain production of the West, coupled with the betterment in the livestock industry, the increase in dairying, and other branches of agricultural expansion, form the background, and is largely responsible for the general speeding up in the whole business of the country, and is occasioning the transfer of other lines of industry from the East to various centres in the West.

The general betterment is the result, as Mr. Robb frankly recognizes, of a beneficent Providence, without whose aid all human efforts must come to naught. It is due, also, to the courage, industry and enterprise of the Canadian people, and to some extent to the steady improvement in world economic conditions, inasmuch as Canada is dependent so largely upon its export trade.

Present conditions are, therefore, good and sound, and future prospects are very bright. It remains for the people of Canada to take full advantage of the situation, not to rest on their oars, but to plan and work in order that our rosy expectations for the coming years may be fully realized. Every reduction in the public debt, every dollar saved, in interest charges, every item of taxation lowered or wiped out, means further relief to all people and a further incentive to still larger development and growth. It is, therefore, to everybody's advantage and gain to work together in national co-operation.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has spoiled. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude herbs. Use what your doctor would advise. The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. So learn—now—why this method is superior. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

Fox Ranching Profitable

Prince Edward Island Still Leading District In Canada

Fox ranchers claim that it is a profitable pursuit, and evidently there is something in it when the applications for registration continue to rise rapidly year after year. Applications received at Ottawa for inspection to Oct. 1 this year ran over 50,000, and more have come in since that time. Prince Edward Island is still the great fox-raising Province. Over 23,000 of the 56,500 applications come from the Garden of the Gulf. New Brunswick is second with nearly 9,500, and Ontario third, with 5,217. Is the Province which is making the greatest proportionate increase.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should Be Taken To Enrich the Blood

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl but cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the worst of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Rutty, Barton street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 85 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health." If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50¢ a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Use of Combines Helped To Expedite the Harvesting of Canada's Greatest Wheat Crop

Much has been heard this autumn of the "combine," the agricultural implement which by cutting and threshing the grain in one operation has expedited the harvesting of Canada's great wheat crop, but the fact has not been brought out that the use of this machine in certain parts of the Prairie Provinces has been made possible not only by mechanical improvements but also by the development of wheats which ripen earlier than those once universally grown. The combine is not suited to all prairie districts, nor to all farming conditions even in districts where generally useful. This is recognized by all interested in prairie agriculture, but notwithstanding this the increase in the number used in harvesting the crop of 1928 as compared with those employed in 1927, has been very great. It is stated that in 1927 the number of combines in the prairie was less than 500, whereas in 1928, estimates place the total at ten times that number. Exact figures cannot be given because many of the machines were delivered only a few days before the opening of harvest.

The combine gets its name from its combination of the functions of reaping and threshing. One part of the implement cuts the grain, high up, so as to take little more than the heads. The cut portions in the straw pass to the threshing-machine section and are threshed out. The grain is delivered into a tank on the upper part of the machine and thence flows into the box of a wagon, or truck, which while it is being filled, keeps pace with the combine. As each wagon is filled it is replaced by another and the full wagon is driven to the granary, or to the elevator on the railway line if the distance is not too great. At the elevator the wagon is placed on a grated, moveable platform and emptied in a minute or less by being tilted backward, so that the grain pours out into a hopper underneath the platform from which it is raised by an endless chain of buckets into the bins of the elevator.

One of the subsidiary reasons for the sudden increase in the use of this implement is the new "swather" or windrow harvester. The swather is a wide reaper which cuts the grain in a strip from twelve to sixteen feet across and lays it, unbound, in swaths or windrows to be later picked up and threshed by the combine. Since these swaths are kept from touching the ground by the "sheaf" of tall stubble on which they lie, the seed is threshed freely all around the heads preventing them to ripen perfectly, if somewhat green, and allowing them to dry out in case of rain. The saving in time, labour, and cash is obvious since the grain is not bound into sheaves then stacked on the ground, and later drawn to a central point and threshed, as is otherwise necessary.

The combine is not new in principle. It was used in the southeastern parts of the United States and in Australia thirty years ago, and specimens have been exhibited and their workings demonstrated in the Prairie Provinces many times previous to the last decade. Individual machines were owned in Saskatchewan as early as 1908. Generally speaking, however, farmers, even those who had as many as eight or ten binders on their farms looked at the machine in those days but refused to buy. The chief objection was that in the Prairie Provinces the wheat then sown ripened so late in the season that part of the crop had to be cut while still "on the green side" and allowed to ripen in the stock. This difficulty has been overcome by the use of the swather and by the development at Canada's experimental farms, of Marquis, Wheat, and other varieties of wheat which ripen from two to three weeks earlier than the old Red Fife variety almost exclusively sown previous to the introduction of Marquis.

The year 1922 may be considered as marking the advent into the Prairie Provinces of the improved combine under present-day conditions. In that year a 15-foot motor-driven machine was put into active service on the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Saskatchewan, thence onward the advance in its use was gradual until the great upswing of this year.

Thus by the research work of the wheat specialists of the Department of Agriculture, coupled with that of inventors and mechanics, not only has the northern limit of the wheat belt been pushed poleward many scores of miles, but the introduction of labour-saving machinery, enabling the cutting and threshing of wheat to go on simultaneously, has also been rendered possible, and this in turn has speeded up the transportation of the crop to the markets of the world.

Indian Trappers Use Plane

Find It Economic Method To Reach Trap Lines

Nothing so indicates the wide-spread fringe of Canadian civilization as the fact that Indian trappers are using the plane to reach their trap lines. Native "made" wealth, from profitable returns from their fur trades have now graduated from dog sleds to motor cars, but how the mail plane from Mayo occasionally carries Indian trappers, who find it an economic method of travel, a few hours of comfort in the air being substituted for days spent toiling behind a laboring dog team.

Ask For Tariff Adjustments

Tariff Advisory Board Deals With Several Requests

The tariff advisory board at a recent meeting in Ottawa, directed its attention upon separate references for tariff adjustments on peanuts and other varieties of nut, clay-working machinery and unwetted deacidified coconut.

Representing the confectionery, biscuit and chocolate industries of Canada, C. J. Bodley submitted a brief asking for a 99 per cent. tariff drawback on nuts used for home consumption, shelled in Canadian factories.

R. J. Deachman, Ottawa, represented the International Clay Products, Limited, Estevan, Sask., asking for the removal of the existing duty on pottery machinery, which ranges from 27 1/2 to 30 per cent. There was no opposition.

It was argued that this type of machinery was not manufactured in Canada owing to its present limited demand. Removal of the duty, however, would permit the Canadian clay products manufacturer to compete on a more equitable basis with the United States manufacturer.

May Utilize Straw From Western Farms

Problem Of Waste May Be Solved By French Invention

For years experts of one kind or another have wrestled with the idea of utilizing the millions of tons of straw that annually go to waste on prairie farms, and now there is more than a flickering ray of hope that the problem is about to be solved through the invention of a new machine by a French engineer.

The Saskatchewan Government, which has closely watched every plan brought forward in the past, is said to be interested in the new invention and may ship ton or two of straw over to France to be tested in the new machine. The French engineer's invention is a machine that presses straw into a slab about two inches thick and binds it with steel wire. The slab can be used for partitions or in the construction of all sorts of out-buildings. It is also said to have possibilities as a fuel.

Alberta Spends Large Sum On Roads

The Alberta government has spent so far this season a total of $3,240,000 in highways construction, maintenance, etc., according to the Calgary Albertan. This amount is within the appropriation authorized by the last session of the legislature, and is in advance of expenditures over similar works during 1927, when the total was $2,346,000.

Work of League of Nations Has Gained Fresh Emphasis From Signing of Peace Pact

"Were it not for Canada, the continent of North America, alone of the continents of the globe, would be unrepresented at the League of Nations. Canada's voice at the League is, therefore, very much the voice not only of this continent, but, to express it in another way, of the new world."

In these words Premier W. Mackenzie King, one of the Dominion's representatives at the recent sittings of the League of Nations in Geneva, spoke of the position of the Dominion of the League. This Prime Minister, speaking before the Ottawa branch of the League, faced a distinguished and non-partisan audience.

Gathered to hear Premier King were: Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, members of the Dominion cabinet; judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner to Canada, and dignitaries of the church.

With the signing of the peace pact of 1928 in Paris, Premier King proceeded, "it seems to me that the whole work of the League of Nations has gained fresh emphasis, and that the position of the League in international affairs assumes an importance even greater than that which it has heretofore had."

The influence of the treaty for the renunciation of war, which the prime minister had signed on behalf of Canada, had, Premier King stated, permeated this year's proceedings of the League.

The Prime Minister went on: "It is now as never before the League's business to see that those evils which make for war, as for example, competitive arming between nations, are combated as strongly as world public opinion can be made to combat them, and that in their stead are substituted the beneficent means which allegiance to a gospel of peace and goodwill alone can afford."

The signatories of the peace pact had pledged the honor of the nations which they represented, Premier King stated, to find pacific means for settling their future differences.

"Whatever view," the Prime Minister continued, "may be taken of the effectiveness of the treaty signed at Paris to achieve the great purpose of prevention of war, which is its aim, there can be no question as to the solemnity of the obligation into which the nations who are signatories to the pact have entered."

Sir George E. Foster, in introducing Premier King, referred to the "most effective and most loyal manner" in which the Prime Minister had represented Canada in the great endeavor for peace.

Robots in the Air New Device May Simplify Duties Of Airplane Pilot

A new gyroscopic device for steering airplanes, successfully demonstrated in Germany, indicates that one of the problems of safer flying which has occupied the attention of aeronautical engineers has been solved. In a test flight from Berlin to Breslau, in which three trans-Atlantic aviators participated, it was only necessary for the pilot to handle the controls during the take-off and landing. Once in the air, the plane was guided by an "iron man" and followed the exact course, set by the inventor, to its destination. Many stabilizing devices have been developed for air-craft, but this appears to mark the most advanced step toward lightening the duties of the pilot and giving him more time for navigational details and other tasks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON NOVEMBER 25

THE PRAYERS OF PAUL

Golden Text: "Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks."—1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.
Lesson: Acts 20:36-38; Romans 1:8-10; Ephesians 1:15-23; 3:14-21; 1 Thessalonians 1:2-5.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 34:1-8.

Explanations and Comments.

Paul Prays With the Ephesian Elders, Acts 20:36-38.—Here we return to the scene on the shore of Miletus, our lesson three weeks ago. When Paul ended this talk with the elders who had come from Ephesus to meet him, he knelt on the shore and prayed with them. No doubt Paul was accustomed to deepen and consecrate his friendship with his co-workers by praying with them.

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Wherefore let thy voice Rise like a fountain for me night and day. That nourish a blind life within the brain, If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer."—Tennyson.

Both for themselves and those who call them friends, Paul was accustomed to deepen and consecrate his friendship with his co-workers by praying with them. No doubt Paul was accustomed to deepen and consecrate his friendship with his co-workers by praying with them.

Paul's Thanksgiving and Prayer, Ephesians 1:15, 16.—The Epistles of Paul generally begin with thanksgiving, the subject of which is the work of God already accomplished in those to whom he writes, and this thanksgiving is followed by a prayer in which the apostle asks that the gracious work may go on in their souls. After this, he passes to the subject he proposes to treat. In the Epistle to the Ephesians he commences with thanksgiving and prayer; and, if I may so speak, he never gets beyond this, and all that he has to impart to his readers is included in the outpouring of gratitude and desire which runs through the whole of the first three chapters. All that follows from the beginning of Chapter IV, is only the practical application of this true apprehension of the divine work.

Hence, as I have heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for the saints, wrote Paul, I mention you in my prayers (Moffatt's translation). Paul was in prison in Rome when he wrote these words, but the prison and his chains could not keep him from caring for his flock by bringing them in prayer to God.

"Paul in his prayers made mention of persons and groups of persons. Are our prayers as personal and specific as they ought to be? The very heathen rebuke us in this matter. On an old scrap of papyrus was written in Egypt, in 172 B.C., a letter from a sister to her brother, saying, 'I continue praying to the gods for your welfare, continually making mention of you. When I get your letter, immediately I thanked the gods for your welfare,' which of us is not rebuked by the figure of the affectionate heathen girl turning from her letter to a grateful prayer. Perhaps the whole trouble lies in our neglect of thanksgiving."—G. A. Johnston Ross.

Your Asthma, Too. The efficacy of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is not something that is merely to be hoped for; it is to be expected. It seldom fails to bring relief, and in your own individual case it will do the same. So universal has been the success of this far-famed remedy that every one afflicted with this disease owes it to himself to try it.

Chicken Hatcheries For Alberta

Company plans To Establish Hatcheries At Several Points In The Province

A chicken hatchery on a large scale is to be established in Alberta, according to L. M. Gaetz, a member of the firm of Canadian Hatcheries, Limited, of Vancouver, and a recent visitor to Edmonton. He stated that the plan of the company was to establish, eventually, hatcheries at several points in the province, where there is unlimited scope for baby chicks of high quality strain; also for eggs and poultry.

LAXATIVE FOR BABY THAT "STAYS DOWN"

Baby's tiny system rebels against castor oil and strong purgatives; but here's a medicine that just suits him. And it does the work quickly and so gently that Baby doesn't feel it. Fletcher's Castoria is soothing, cross, fretful babies and children to sleep and making the feverish, constipated, upset ones well and happy, in millions of homes today. Castoria is purely vegetable, harmless and endorsed by the medical profession. Avoid imitations. The Cross, H. Fletcher signature marks genuine Castoria.

The remains of a lost civilization are being searched for in Soviet territory. They don't say who lost the civilization, but we can guess.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS — ALWAYS IN THE HOME

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little one, she always keeps a supply on hand, for the first trial convinces her there is nothing but the best in keeping children well. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the bowels and soothes the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion, voids and simple fevers today making teaching easier. Concerning them, Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Dumas, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Agriculture and vegetable products furnished two-thirds of Canada's exports to the United Kingdom in August.

Simple and Sure.—Dr. Thomas' Eucletic Oil is so simple in application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

"Doctor, I understand that you give a commission when one brings you a patient." "Yes, where is the patient?" "I am the patient myself."

TRAGIC STORY OF SINKING OF LINER VESTRIS

New York.—Two shiploads of survivors of the Lampont and Holt line "Vestris" arrived here, untold details of one of the most horrible of marine disasters.

An official inquiry has been ordered, based upon their almost unanimous charges of inefficiency, indecision and delay against Captain William J. Carey and his crew.

Interspersed in narratives of heroism—and of brutality—of narrow escape and long-suffering invariably appeared assertions that if proper steps had been taken by the ship's executives and crew, most, if not all, of the 108 now dead would be alive.

Even with the S.O.S. call too long delayed, efficient handling of the Vestris' life-saving equipment by those responsible would have brought most of the 108 out of danger, declared survivors.

Those are charges which United States Attorney Tuttle announced he will begin to investigate.

But Captain Carey probably had his reasons—yet he will never tell them. For forty years he had sailed in Lampont and Holt steamers. His "came up" through the "fo'castle," as the sailors say, starting as a deck boy, advancing to ordinary seaman, then an able seaman, and finally "winning his title" and "putting on the gold braid of an officer of the line."

When he took the Vestris out of port he was the ranking master of the Lampont and Holt fleet.

Two days later he stood on the bridge and knew his ship was ordered to abandon ship. He never had lost a boat before. He stood at the rail and directed the mates as they had the boats lowered away.

He saw two boats loaded with "women and children first"—the first two boats to be put over-side. He saw them capsized and crumpled in the smoking sea.

His saw Lord Licoirah, a gigantic negro from the Barbados, leap into the water and save 16 people by pulling them to the side of waiting lifeboats. He saw Archibald Bannister dive overboard and climb into an empty boat which had gone adrift, and then coax and drag into it a full load of 22 persons. He heard women scream and saw men quake with fear. He saw human life fade out around him.

And all the time the first ship he had ever lost was settling deeper and deeper into the sea.

At last all were gone. One boat remained by the ship's side, a place in it for Captain Carey and another for Mike O'Laughlin, his chief radio officer.

But those were never taken.

Carey probably was the last man who saw O'Laughlin alive. That gallant officer was last seen still at his key near the master's bridge, and the hiss of the radio's spark was still mingling with the hiss of the seas which lapped upon the settling decks. O'Laughlin probably leaped into the sea and was sucked down by the ship.

But this to Carey—40 years with one line and this his first disaster—was the end.

Bent beneath his tremendous burden, he stood at the rail, the survivors said, as the water reached up for him and his ship.

There were lifebelts and lifelines all around him—the things might have saved his life.

But Carey chose the course which many another true deep water sailor had chosen. He leaped into the sea and as the vessel went under water Captain Carey went with it—a dead ship going down with a dead skipper still in command.

What is more satisfying after the bridge game than a cup of two of Red Rose Tea? Millions of Canadians prefer it to any other because of finer flavor, remarkable strength and dustless purity. Put up in aluminum—the only material which completely protects good tea.

Prospect For Further Reduction In Taxes

Increase In Revenue Makes Cut Next Year Probable

Ottawa.—Prospects for further substantial tax reductions next year are said to be improving with the increasing receipt of revenue collected by the customs department. In September the customs receipts showed an increase of over two million dollars over September, 1927. In October the customs receipts are said to be up by over three and half millions.

The seven months collections from customs are up by over seventeen and a quarter million dollars. Despite tariff reductions in the last budget. A percentage of the increase is due to the larger percentage of collections of money due and a curbing of customs defrauding.

The October customs collections will when published show an increase of over three-quarters of a million over October, 1927.

The excise taxes are down about fifty thousand this year. This is credited to tariff reductions in the tax itself which this year amounted to 25 per cent. The net increase for the seven months, however, is nearly three and three quarters millions. All government departments are said to have been instructed to prepare their estimates carefully, and this is now being done so that with an increase in the revenue even under reduced taxation, and a decrease in expenditure further tax reductions will be included in the 1928 Budget.

Regina.—Definite announcement of the appointment and powers of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission, directed by the Saskatchewan Government to investigate the present method and system of grading, mixing, handling and marketing of grain was made by Hon. Stoneman, Saskatoon, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, and Dean W. J. Rutherford, head of the College of Agriculture at the University of Saskatchewan.

Public sittings of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission will open at country points in Saskatchewan during the first week in December and will be continued as long as is necessary to enable farmers to present their cases.

J.—Doctor Sablo Von Schocky died here, a victim of the luminous paint which he invented for the painting of watch dials in the plant of a radium corporation formerly located in Orange. Search For Small Continues

May Use Steam Shovel To Dig For Remains Of Missing Millionaire

Toronto, Ont.—Patrick Sullivan, special agent for the Misses Small, sisters of Ambrose J. Small, missing millionaire, may secure, is said, a team shovel outfit from Bolton, Ont., to excavate the Rosedale dump where both Sullivan and Dr. Langner, criminologist, believe the remains can be found.

Sullivan anticipates that the work of excavating the dump will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Despite previous assurances that he had abandoned his enquiry into the disappearance of Small, Langner will return to Toronto from Montreal for further work upon the "word-famous" mystery, it is learned here.

"I have been in touch with Langner and he tells me that he will be back here at work on the case before the middle of next week, perhaps before," Sullivan said.

Lava Flow Diminishing

Natives In Mount Elma Region Meeting Changed Conditions
Giare, Sicily.—With the lava flow from Mount Elma diminishing hourly in intensity, natives of the stricken region are gradually recognizing their economic life to meet the new conditions that nature has forced upon them.

There was some talk of tunnelling through the lava which has spread over the road as soon as the molten stream cooled and its flow subsided. This would restore the severed railway to normal service. One of the most rapid over the diminution of the lava flow was Leonardo Patane, whose age is 100, and who is known as the "Granda of Nuzulata." This intrepid centenarian steadfastly refused to budge from the threatened village. He proclaimed to all and sundry that he would be the last to leave. Now he is exhibiting a broad and toothless grin, saying "I told you so" in Sicilian dialect to all visitors.

New Zealand Elections

Government Forces Under Premier Coates' Reversal Setback

Wellington, N.Z.—Prohibition was defeated by a majority of around 100,000 votes and the government forces under J. G. Coates, prime minister, suffered a severe setback in the election.

Prohibition was the ballot in the form of a referendum as to whether a licensing system should be adopted. The vote was overwhelmingly against continuance of prohibitions.

A new united party under the leadership of Sir Joseph Ward made its debut by gaining seats from Premier Coates' party all over the Dominion.

The final standing by parties was: Government, 28; United party, 29; Labor, 20; Independents, 4.

Most of the Independents are opposed to the government. The premier's party failed to gain a single seat. It had 63 of the 80 seats in the last parliament.

The new united party combines Liberals, Nationalists and others opposed to the reform and Labor parties.

Three ministers lost their seats: A. D. McLeod, minister of lands; O. J. Hawken, minister of agriculture, and J. F. Ralston, minister of justice.

British Government

Testing New Device

Simple Piece Of Machinery Said To Make Small Quantity Of Electricity Unlimited

London, Eng.—The Daily Mail gives prominent display to an article asserting that William Harrison, an elderly resident of St. Helena, Isle of Wight, has invented a simple piece of machinery by which it is claimed a small quantity of electric power can be converted at trifling cost into relatively unlimited supplies of current at high voltage.

The device has been patented by Harrison and his sponsor, Councillor Thomas Wood, a manufacturer of St. Helena's. The Mail says that the invention has attracted keen attention from the government which is testing it.

It predicts that if the claims, which are contrary to all previous theories, are substantiated all present methods of manufacture and distribution of electricity will become obsolete.

May Move Weather Bureau

Headquarters Of Department Likely To Be At Ottawa

Ottawa.—The retirement of Sir Frederick Stuart, director of the meteorological service of Canada, on January 1 next, it is expected that the headquarters of his department will be removed from Toronto to Ottawa. The growing service of the bureau to navigation, forest fire fighting, the work done by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and more recently the aeroplanes traffic together with the fact that all the other important branches of the weather service are located here, are given as the reason for the change.

Hudson's Strait Expedition

Quebec.—The Hudson's Strait expedition which started from Halifax in July 1927, with the object of establishing aids to navigation and securing scientific data on ice, wind and weather conditions in the Strait the year round, has concluded with the return a few days ago of the C.G.S. Montcalm, in command of Captain John Henry to Quebec.

PLACE FOR THIS DOMINION IN EMPIRE AFFAIRS

Montreal.—A willingness to share the responsibilities which in the earlier stages of Imperial development Britain bore alone is the obligation which Canada and other Dominions should be ready to meet for their development in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

This is the message which Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of foreign affairs in the British government, left with the people of Canada before he left Montreal for Quebec, en route to England.

"There is room in our Commonwealth," said Sir Austen, "for the fullest development of Canadian nationality."

"We welcome your co-operation in all fields, and not least in the field of foreign affairs; but now that you claim, and rightly claim, a place in the field of foreign affairs, you must study them. You must take an interest which will make your papers afford you all the information necessary to enable you to form a judgment, and you must be willing to share the responsibilities which in the earlier stages of Imperial development we have had to bear alone."

"We shall welcome your assistance and even your criticism. But let it not be criticism only after the event but a real partnership in forming the decisions."

Wheat Crop Estimated At Half A Billion

Figures Given For Canada's Production This Year

Ottawa, Canada, wheat crop for 1928 is placed at 500,000,000 bushels in the crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Last year's total was 440,024,770 bushels. The crop of fall wheat this year is given as 18,966,000 bushels as compared with 22,226,000 bushels last year. Spring wheat total for this year is 481,647,000 bushels as against 417,800,000 bushels the year before.

The Canadian Pacific has decided on a new ferry service between Staveaton, on the mainland, and Sydney, on Vancouver Island, according to Captain C. D. Neerout, manager of the B. C. Coast Steamship Service. The new service will begin early next summer, being inspired by the increased demand for short water hauls.

Tourists to Victoria, the capital of British Columbia, this year numbered 370,000, according to the Victoria Publicity Bureau. Tourist travel from Canadian points and from the west coast of the United States to Vancouver Island and Victoria, via the C. P. R. and the coastal steamship service, show an increase over last year.

New York newspaper cameramen went overboard to-day, snapping on the parapets of city skyscrapers and are not content with ordinary portraits, was the somewhat bitter observation of Guy Weadick, manager of the Century Stampede, who returned to Canada recently from participating in Tex Rickard's radio in Madison Square Garden, New York. "They wanted real action for photographs," he said, "and we had to leave policemen from a group of busses on Fifth Avenue to please them."

Grain storage facilities of the harbor of Vancouver, B.C., which now exceed 10,000,000 bushels, will be largely increased next season. It is believed, in view of the fact that storage bins are already nearly full and the westward flow of grain may have to be reduced in consequence. It is being reported that the Midland-Pacific Terminal and other groups will add storage capacity to existing terminal houses.

Over 175,000 trees have been planted along the main highways of the province of Quebec during the past two years by the Road Department, in following out its embellishment scheme, which includes co-operation from residents along the roads. "Since the beginning of the season," states an official bulletin, "the Minister of Roads has been insisting on the importance of beautifying roadsides. Tourists can now travel throughout the province on modern and perfectly maintained roads."

"Canary Koradyk Alcarra," Holstein-Friesian cow belonging to Ben H. Thompson, of H. J. Boharm, Saskatchewan, has been declared world's champion butterfat producer, according to an advice received by the owner from the live stock commissioner at Ottawa, stating that the cow in the world championship with an enormous margin to spare. The record of Canary Koradyk Alcarra for 305 days was 1,060 pounds of butter-fat, or 106 pounds more than any previous record holder. In the 305-day period the cow produced 26,296 pounds of milk with an average test of 4.64 butter-fat.

There is no doubt in the mind of L. B. James, of New York, as the New York Central will attack human beings. Although the subject is a controversial one among game hunters, decisive testimony was afforded recently in the experience of Mr. James in the Metagans district, lying between Sudbury and Chapeau in Northern Ontario. He was paddling in his canoe along the shore of the Spanish River and came upon a bull moose unwary. The animal at once gave chase and only by dint of hard paddling by Pete Commande, the Indian guide, were they able to escape. Another canoe in rear was similarly pursued.

For a short interval the noble animal held his majestic pose, then, swaying awkwardly, he disappeared from view. At the sharp crack of the rifle the man by Donald's side winced as though the bullet had seared his own flesh. Brushing the sleeve of his coarse mackinaw shirt hastily across his eyes, he muttered a curse, then turned and ran with stumbling steps to his waiting team, mounted the seat and chuckled gently to his four horses. The big animals strained against their collars. The huge load moved slowly at first, then gathering momentum, rolled swiftly up the road.

Gillis brought five cayuses to the rear of the station and in a few minutes his practiced hands loaded two of them with their baggage.

The small cavalcade moved up the dusty road in a single file, with Douglas in the lead. They overtook and met numbers of freight wagons going in and out, the drivers shouting greetings to each other in foreign tongues. They passed the track-laying machine, which was throwing the heavy rails about as if they were matches in giant hands. Guards stopped them without the sound of flying debris while giant blasts rent the air as if some titanic monster had torn the earth asunder. Huge rocks soared above the trees, then crashed to the ground with sickening thuds, while small pebbles spattered about them. Through the trees they saw a cloud of steam and smoke. The air was whistled with incessant quick steam-whistles as a huge steam-shovel growled and tore like a ravenous monster at the gravelled hillside. Four men bearing a stretcher came slowly down the trail. A man on horseback, wearing riding breeches and leather leggings, rode in their wake.

"How are you, Doctor Paul?" greeted Douglas. "Is it a serious accident?"

"True fell on him. Broke both legs, and he is hurt internally—won't live," answered the doctor in a low voice.

Donald glimpsed the face of the sufferer showing ashen through a stubby beard. Bloody bandages framed two crimson-stained lips, from which issued the guttural groans of agony. They moved on in silence for a few moments.

"When people ride in trains," observed Gillis, "there ain't one in a thousand that knows what it costs in sufferin' and lives to make it so's they can ride in comfort."

By mid-afternoon they came to the vanguard of the army of workers, the men who were clearing the right-of-way. At intervals they could hear the long-drawn cry of the choppers as the top of a giant tree shivered and then with a great rending crash fell to earth with a resounding roar. Here they came to the end of the new road, and with a feeling of relief they plunged into the cool shadow of the virgin woods. Above the great clamour, the forest, through which the trail wandered deviously, seemed steeped in primal calm. The roar of the blasts no longer came in definite crashes, but was smothered by the distance to a muffled rumble.

A rider jogging down the trail reined in his horse and shouted a cheery greeting in true Western style. He was a clean-built, alert young man, with a frank smile, and seemed elastic with the sword-keen health of outdoors. He swung easily from the saddle and introduced himself.

"My name is Wilkinson. I am the District Ranger. It's getting a bit dry in spots, so I want you to be careful about your fire."

When Douglas told him the object of their trip to Summit Lake the Ranger smiled apologetically.

"My warning was unnecessary, then. I took you for a party of campers. I'm following the construction work, so will probably see you again before long."

He mounted his cayuse, waved his hand in farewell, then galloped down the trail.

The narrow path wound around the boles of enormous trees towering high above them, some of the tallest being nearly two hundred feet in height. Gillis appraised them with a critical eye. He was thinking of them as logs, calculated in terms of board feet, but over Donald's [their beauty and nobility cast a strange spell. How long had these monarchs enjoyed the repose no soon to be broken by puny man? Probably some of them were good-sized trees when Columbus discovered America.

The solemnity of the forest was at times broken by the sharp "ka-a-a-a-a-h" of startled deer as they caught their scent, or the sudden hum of wings as big blue grouse shot up from their path. Once the horses pricked up their ears and snorted in fear—as a bear crashed his way through the deep woods.

As daylight abandoned the forest and twilight made eerie shadows on the dusky trail, they swung to an open space on the banks of the roaring Cheekamus River, and made camp for the night.

At daybreak they began the upward climb, and by noon felt the buoyancy of the air in the higher altitude. They crossed rushing streams and skirted the shores of small lakes on whose waters rested flocks of ducks in gregarious rillike formations. The cayuses with their enormous packs showed signs of fatigue, and Gillis called frequent halts as the trail gradually grew steeper.

"We are nearly there," cried Douglas eagerly. "A few minutes later they topped a heavily wooded hill and swung in to a narrow path on their right. There was no need to guide the horses, as they knew that here were rest and food for them."

There was a sudden quickening along the line. Donald's horse broke into a run, with Andy's close behind the latter holding to the rear of his saddle and making a wry face.

"I wish I knew how to keep this 'ore blinkin' saddle from comin' up and hittin' me in the seat," said Andy querulously.

Donald reined in his eager horse as they emerged from the woods and an enchanting scene burst on his view.

"This blinkin' 'ore is . . . " Andy stopped as his gaze followed Donald's. Both sat spell-bound, and the others joined them quietly.

The panorama spread before them was singularly wild and impressive. Below them stretched a lake of emerald hue, rippled here and there by occasional cat's-paws, but for the most part, placid enough to reflect the shores with mirror-like clearness. To their right lay an open valley, through which ran a crystal clear mountain stream, its banks fringed with willow, alder and blooming Labrador tea. A rustic bridge of logs crossed the rushing stream to a cluster of well-built log cabins that were fenced in by a palisade of cedar posts. Inside the enclosure a patch of freshly ploughed soil stood out rich and dark against the carpet of green.

Under the azure sky, dotted with fleecy clouds, a brilliantly white skyline of ice-covered mountains, whose peaks flashed in the setting sun, circled this beautiful mountain valley.

From below were wafted the odours of an awakening earth. The sweet perfume of the newly-opened and sticky buds of the balsam-of-gilead, the delicious aroma of the spruce and pine, the heavy, sweet smell of the water plants and the white orchids; all this fragrance was borne on the crisp, sparkling mountain air. Involuntarily the travellers ailed their lungs with this life-giving atmosphere.

A beautiful gold-eye drake and his drab-coloured mate swam along the shore in search of a safe place to nest. From the centre of the lake a loon sent out its weird cry, echoing and re-echoing from the wooded hills like wild demoniacal laughter. A quick rush of wings overhead, then a mallard duck struck the water with a loud splash and immediately set up a sustaining quacking until answered by a more gentle note from the reeds, whence emerged a hen-mallard. The two met amid a great bobbing of heads. Gabbling in an undertone they swam down the lake together.

The elusive hooting of male blue-grouse came from the tree tops of the rocky slopes. A willow-grouse moved from a clump of bushes with a haughty step to show her finery by ruffling the feathers of her neck and spreading her fan-like tail. There was a sharp "plopp" as a rainbow trout curved gracefully on the surface to leave a widening circle of ripples on the calm water. All through this sun-washed valley was the soft murmur of a land at peace—peace because unspooled by man.

Donald drew a long breath. "Strike me pink!" breathed Andy in an awed tone.

"Holy mackerel! but ain't she a pretty spot?" came excitedly from Gillis.

As they rumbled across the bridge a man came to the door of the log cabin, ran swiftly to the fence and swung the gate open. With a hand held to his brow to shade his eyes from the slanting rays of the setting sun, he peered up at the horsemen. His eyes lighted up as he recognized Douglas.

"Hello, o' timer!" he shouted cheerily.

John Hillier filled the dual role of trapper and road-house keeper. His fantastic dress of deer-skin, the six-shooter slung at his hip, and the big sombrero that topped his shaggy grey head gave him almost a sinister appearance.

'Old John's face was savage and wild, but his bristly moustache hid a mouth as tender as a woman's. Great shaggy brows beetling out over his grey mountaineer eyes could not conceal the softness that crept into them so often. His gentle eyes seemed out of place in that homely, battle-scarred face. It was like finding a touch of romance in a treatise on trigonometry.
